

Crowdsourcing for Operations Workshop

Joint ITE International and Texas District Annual Meeting & Exhibit

July 24, 2019 1:00 – 4:00 pm, Austin, TX

Come learn from State and Local experts in Crowdsourcing at the ITE Annual Meeting (July 24th 1:00PM)

The Crowdsourcing for Operations is hosting a 3-hour workshop to bring awareness of low-cost, high-value crowdsourced applications to transportation leadership, operations and ITS managers, and technical leads within agencies responsible for transportation systems management and operations.

During this session, participants will hear from three practitioners about their experiences using crowdsourced data from cellular-based sources, smartphone apps, and social media in urban and rural regions. Participants will learn how these practitioners improved situational awareness, traveler information, and the management of signal systems, road weather response, incidents, work zones and performance reporting.

After hearing from practitioners, participants will take part in multiple break-out sessions for deeper conversation on data and applications that are of greatest interest to your organization. Within each break-out session, you will collaborate with a smaller group of peers to delve into (1) whether a specific data source or application is right for your agency, (2) whether crowdsourced data you already collect can be applied to benefit other programs within your agency, and (3) how to navigate around barriers that might otherwise hinder your agency's effective use of crowdsourcing.

Participants will leave with a knowledge of the many sources and uses of crowdsourced data, and with awareness of how the EDC-5 Crowdsourcing for Operations Innovation Team may assist your state and local agency in accelerating the implementation of crowdsourced data for safer, more reliable, and efficient operations.

Please note you may register for the workshop without registering for the ITE Annual meeting. There is a $10 registration fee for this workshop.
